MONDAY, JUNE 18, 1866.

Some time ago the Petroleum Bank of Titusville and the Venango Bank of Franklin deposited in the Auditor General's office at Harrisburg $1,500,000 in United States securities to protect their circulating notes. Auditor General Slenker allowed Culver, Penn & Co. to get possession of these securities, take them to New York and apply them to the uses of their house. The persons implicated in the transaction, except the late Auditor General, have been arrested for the fraud. The question is already started whether the persons holding circulating notes of those banks have not a valid claim for indemnity against the State. Without pretending to much legal knowledge, we say the State is not liable. If the Auditor General was guilty of a violation of law, he alone is answerable.

General Rosseau, of Kentucky, caned Mr. Grinnell, of Iowa, for words spoken in debate on the floor of the House of Representatives. A committee, appointed to inquire into the matter, has adjourned its sessions for one week.

Mr. Grinnell greatly transcended the limits of fair discussion by a vulgar and indecent personal diatribe upon General Rosseau. The Speaker was greatly remiss that he did not promptly enforce the rules of the House.

General Rosseau waited three days for the apology to which he was entitled, and which he had reason to suppose would be given, and then he placed himself in the wrong by taking redress into his own hands, and in a manner not to be justified or excused.

In the Crawford Congressional district the canvass for the Republican nomination waxes so intense that some zealous partizans have lost their discretion. For instance the Titusville Herald has this:

"Culver's Candidate for Congress.—It is not generally known that S. Newton Pettis is C. Culver's candidate for Congress. But for the persuasions of Pettis, Culver would have long ago resigned his seat. The Governor refused to appoint Pettis to the vacancy, and hence Culver, through Pettis' exhortations, was induced to retain the position."

Considering the Governor has no authority whatever for supplying vacancies in the House of Representatives, that is cutting pretty deep.

The Auditor General has appointed Messrs. H. C. Alleman, E. C. Williams and Thomas J. Jordin, of Harrisburg, a commission to examine the affairs of the Venango Bank. The Auditor General, in the official paper announcing this appointment, declares that this bank has committed an act of insolvency, of which he has been furnished with satisfactory evidence. The members of the commission proceed to Venango county to day to discharge the duty devolved upon them.

Prof. H. D. Rogers, the celebrated geologist, is dead. He was born in Philadelphia, of Irish parentage, in 1809. His chief work was an elaborate survey of Pennsylvania, which caused his recognition abroad, and procured for him a Professorship in the University of Glasgow, in Scotland. He was in this country last year; but his health commenced failing soon after his return to Glasgow.

Collector Sheiner is removing Assistant Collectors who are opposed to "My Policy." Friend Orwig, of the Mifflinburg Telegraph, has already lost his head.—Smoukin Herald.

On the other hand, we know Collectors, appointed because they professed to be supporters of "My Policy," who have appointed intensely radical deputies. When cheating commences at the head of the table, it sometimes works all the way round.

A report to the effect that Governor Curtin would not support General Geary having obtained currency, the Bellefonte Press is authorized by the Governor to say that he is now, and has from the first been, a firm and unconditional supporter of the nomination of General Geary, and shall, so far as in him lies, advocate his election.

Mr. Thaddeus Stevens thinks it worth $2,000,000 to this country to send Maximilian out of Mexico some few days or weeks before the natural order of events will carry him. Considering the burden of taxation endured by our people, we do not concur in that judgment.

The news from Peoria, contained in our dispatches this morning, lead to the inference that general war is inevitable. France, Prussia, Italy, Russia, all see, or think they see, a path opening through war to territorial aggrandizement, and are willing to take the chances.

On last Friday afternoon 1,200 Fenians sent from Buffalo to their homes in the West, changed cars at Cleveland. They made a regular sack at the Atlantic and Great Western Depot, taking all the provisions, knives, forks, &c., they could lay their hands on.

Col. Ira G. Grover, on the 14th inst., was nominated by acclamation as the Republican candidate for Congress in the fourth Indiana district. Mr. John H. Farquhar is the present member. He declined serving again.

Trustworthy men assure us that the late Butler county Republican Convention neither passed, nor had before it, a resolution upon the United States Senatorship. Will the Butler American explain this matter?

Snyder County.—The Republicans have nominated the following ticket:

Congress—George F. Miller; Assembly—John H. Wright; Sheriff—Daniel Bolendar; Commissioner—Abraham Eyer; Auditors—Daniel Gemberling, John J. Kelly.

The Legislature of Tennessee will be convened in special session, and will ratify the Constitutional Amendment. That done, loyal members from that State will be admitted to seats in Congress.

A hope has been indulged, for some days past, that New York might escape cholera, at least in the epidemic form. Our telegrams this morning, serve to create uneasiness in that particular.

The veto of the New York and Montana Mining and Manufacturing Company Bill will be complained of by nobody but the gentlemen concerned in the prospective enterprise.

The Fenians, in various convocations, are denouncing the President for the rigor with which he has enforced the neutrality laws.

Mr. J. B. Grinnell, of Iowa, who was caned by Gen. Rosseau, has failed of renomination. Judge Loughridge defeated him.

A Medical Marvel.

Things without the pale of probability strike us as wonderful, and even as incredible, were we not assured of their truth by living and reliable witnesses. One of the things that really surpasses all others in its curative power is "Dr. Keyser's Blood Searcher." The cures that it has performed are here in Pittsburgh, where the medicine is known and made. They are not bogus but real, not trumped up for the occasion, but have a real living existence, and should be known and heralded for the sake of suffering humanity. No medicine of modern times has a juster claim upon the man or woman who may be suffering from either disease or debility. We speak what we do know and have the living and authentic witnesses to the facts that Dr. Keyser's Blood Searcher has cured cancer after it had eaten off the nose, cheek and neck? We have known it cure scrofula of seven years' standing, when the little girl, its victim, had been unable to wear shoes on her feet for seven years, and had more than thirty running sores and ulcers over her head and body. We have seen it cure all manner of skin disease. We know a case of Rheumatism of twenty-five years' standing, where the joints were stiff and contracted, get well under its use. We published a case of Piles of eighteen years' standing, get well by using five bottles. The names and residences of all these cures can be given, if desired. Dr. Keyser's Blood Searcher cures by thoroughly renewing the system, pushing out the worn-out matter and enabling the stomach to digest the food to supply its place in the animal economy.

Reader, if you have bad health, and have hitherto failed to get relief by the ordinary means, try Dr. Keyser's Blood Searcher, made and sold at 140 Wood street. $1 per bottle or six bottles for five dollars. Six dollars remitted to my address will insure that many bottles to any address where an express runs. If your druggist won't order it for you, send to me and I will forward at once.

Heat and Exhaustion.

It requires a constitution and physique of unusual strength to resist the effect of the enervating heat of July and August. Unless the system is toned and sustained by a wholesome stomachic during these oppressive months it is likely to be so severely debilitated as to render it an easy prey to the epidemics which invariably prevail. "A wholesome stomachic where is it to be found?" asks the reader, who has, perhaps, been told by his physician that a little good brandy is a serviceable stimulant, and has sought for that obsolete article in vain. It would be as idle to expect wholesomeness and purity among the liquors of commerce as to look for miracles of piety in the state prisons, or wisdom in an idiot asylum.

There is one sure resource—but one—for those whohneed a protective tonic and health-sustaining invigorant. Let them commence at once, as the torrid season opens in all its intensity, a course of Hostetter's Stomach Bitters. Ask the returned officers and soldiers of the Union Army, who have used this elixir during the war, what they think of it. They will tell you that it keeps up the vital forces under the willing beams of a vertical sun without vitiating the blood or creating any undue excitement in the circulation. As the poet Cowper said of tea, "It cheers, but not inebriates." It braces the nervous organization and regulates all the functions of the body. No other stimulant can compare in purity with the Essence of Rye, which forms its basis, and the tonic, aperient and antibilious herbs with which it is medicated are the best of their kind on the face of the earth.

Hostetter's Bitters

Are sold wholesale and retail at very low rates at Fleming's Drug and Patent Medicine Depot No. 84 Market street, corner of the Diamond and Market, near Fourth street.

CONGRESSIONAL PROCEEDINGS.

The Mileage Question—The Matter to be Inquired Into—Resolution to Loan Mexico $2,000,000—General Debate—Eulogies to be Paid a Deceased Member of the House.

Washington City, June 16, 1866.

HOUSE

Mr. Garfield gave notice that he would, next Monday, offer a resolution directing the Committee on Mileage to examine and report what discrepancy, if any, there was between the amount of mileage received by the members of the last Congress and the amount claimed by them, and directing the Committee to allow no more mileage in future to a member than has been allowed by him. The reason why he wished the resolution to be adopted. On looking into the documents showing the pay and mileage of members for the last Congress, he found himself set down as being paid for 2,740 miles of travel, being for six hundred and eighty-five miles four times repeated. He had only, in going to the circular sent him by the Chairman of the Committee on Mileage, five hundred and sixty-five miles as the distance from his home to Washington. That, multiplied by four, would make the number of miles 2,260, so that he was paid for four hundred and eighty miles more than he had claimed. Drawing this mileage in sums of fifty and one hundred dollars at a time he did not notice the discrepancy, and it was only in referring to the document that he became aware of the fact. He found now, on inquiry, that other members from Ohio, and perhaps from all parts of the country, had been allowed more mileage than they had claimed. In the case of his colleague, Mr. Schenck, he had discovered on being paid the balance due him the last day of Congress, the discrepancy and had declined to receive the increased amount. It appeared that the committee on mileage had in this way got up a scale of distances utterly unknown to the members, and one time the whole thing was pulled to Congress and the country, and members were set down as having received a very considerable amount more than they had claimed. He therefore gave this notice that he would next Monday ask unanimous consent to offer the resolution directing the Committee on Mileage to inquire into the matter.

Notwithstanding an effort except general debate on the President's annual message, Mr. Julian made a speech in favor of the Congressional plan of reconstruction.

Mr. Stevens gave notice of his intention to offer the following resolution:

Resolved, That the Committee on Foreign Affairs be instructed to inquire into the propriety of loaning to the Republic of Mexico, on proper security, two millions of dollars to enable such Republic to prevent the overthrow of its government and the establishment of a monarchial government on the continent of America.

Mr. Stevens addressed the House in favor of the proposition.

Speeches were made by Mr. Niblock on general policies; by Mr. Davis on the tariff question, and by Mr. Kerr against Congressional interference with the railroad system of the country. Many other members who designed making speeches to-day and who had no opportunity of doing so, were authorized to have them published in the Globe as part of the debate.

Mr. Davis announced that since the meeting of the House he had received a telegram announcing the death, this morning, after a short illness, of Mr. James Humphreys, Representative of the Third District of New York. He moved, as a mark of respect that the House adjourn, and he gave notice to the New York delegation of a meeting to arrange a suitable time for paying due respect to the memory of the deceased.

The House thereupon, at 3:45 P.M. adjourned.

Large Emigration Westward.

The House committee on Foreign Relations took up the proposition to repeal the neutrality laws, to-day, and had the Attorney General and Major Gen. Halleck before them. The Attorney General was of the opinion that the present law should not be repealed, but should be enforced, or else it would fall into disuse, as it has in other foreign nations. No decision was reached, but it is safe to predict that the Committee will report adversely to the repeal.

Flag Presentations on the Fourth

An adjourned meeting of the general committee appointed to make arrangements for the reception of the State flags on the Fourth of July next, was held in Philadelphia on Friday, Gen. Harry White presiding.

The committee on transportation reported that the railroad companies had agreed to transport free the color bearers and guards. Tickets to the number of two thousand two hundred and twenty-five have been sent to Gen. Negley, the chairman, and the whole matter is in his charge.

The city councils of Philadelphia have appropriated ten thousand dollars towards defraying the expenses of the reception.

The committee on invitation reported that the President and his cabinet and Lieut. Gen. Grant had given good reason to hope that they would be present on the occasion. There is no doubt that Gen. Grant will be present.

Col. John B. Rooke, Col. Richard Coulter, Gen. J. L. Selfridge, Col. W. H. Davis and Col. Charles Albright were appointed a committee on guests to be invited.

Mr. Elkins, chairman of the sub-committee of arrangements, submitted a report, materially the same that has been published. The procession on the morning of the Fourth will be formed under the direction of Gen. W. S. Hancock, and the first troops in order will be those who were the first to pass through Baltimore on their way to Washington, when the call for 75,000 men was in danger, at the commencement of the rebellion in 1861.

It was resolved that the resolution in regard to officers and men appearing in uniform was not designed to be compulsory, but intended as a request to appear in uniform as far as practicable.

The chairman of the committee was directed to telegraph to General Negley, directing him to proceed immediately to the city of Harrisburg, there to take command of the militia in his possession, and that Colonel Harrison, and General Jordan be constituted a committee to meet at Harrisburg in regard to the distribution.

A resolution was adopted appointing a committee to proceed to Harrisburg to receive the flags and escort them to Philadelphia on the 3d of July.

Double Scull Races—Distance Three Miles—First Prize $250, Second Prize $50.

Barge Race—Distance Three Miles First Prize $200.

The regatta will be rowed over the Monongahela course, from the Suspension Bridge to Bruno's Island, in the four-oared race Pittsburgh will be represented by the Lone Star, the rowing their new shell "Pittsburgh," and the Xantha Club with the "New York." Both crews are in active training and are confident of victory. The single scull race will probably competed for, there being no less than five boats entered from this city alone.

A Suitor Assailed

A young man named Antonio Derwent appeared before Alderman Johns, on Saturday, and preferred a charge of aggravated assault and battery against a woman named Sallie Boyle. The circumstances, as deposed by Derwent, are as follows: On Friday the latter paid a visit to a young lady, who was boarding with Mrs. Boyle, for the purpose of soliciting the company for the cold Fellows picnic. While he and the young lady were talking, Mrs. Boyle entered the room and ordered him to leave the house, calling him a drunken tramp, and, not worthy the consideration of any decent person. This Derwent resented by calling her a drunken old hag, whereupon she became very much incensed, and struck her character over the shoulder several times with it, after which he made good his escape. A warrant was issued, on Mrs. Boyle's information, for the arrest of Derwent, charging him with assault and battery. Derwent, however, stated that before striking Derwent she had repeatedly warned him to leave the house. The case was continued until Monday morning, a fine of $10 and costs being imposed upon the defendant.

A Man Rolls Out of a Third Story Window

On Saturday morning about seven o'clock some of the employees at the saddlery hardware manufactory of Cornwall & Kerr, No. 78 Water street, discovered the dead body of a man lying at the rear of the building. It proved to be that of Mr. J. M. Corbett, and from appearances it was judged that he had fallen out of a window some time during Friday night. The face of the deceased was considerably eaten by rats. Coroner Clawson held an inquest on the body, and a verdict in accordance with the above was rendered. It is supposed that Mr. Corbett on Friday night laid down in the third story upon a bench elevated several inches above the sill of the window opposite and fell through, striking the back part of his head on the floor. The jury rendered a verdict of accidental death.

Started to Build—Workmen have commenced the construction of a new sewer in Allegheny, to extend from Anderson street in the Fourth ward to the outlet of the canal in the Fifth ward. The Pittsburgh, Fort Wayne & Chicago Railroad Company will defray a portion of the expense, and the remainder will be assessed on the property holders residing along the line of the sewer. The benefits resulting from the work will be of decided value to our sister community, as to the lack of proper drainage, more than anything else, we owe the prevalence of disease.

Malicious Mischief.—Michael Dugan was before Mayor Morrison, on Saturday, charged with malicious mischief, on oath of William Merry. The offense consisted in Michael draining a pond of stagnant water into Murray's cellar, in which was stored quite a quantity of provisions, coal and, furniture, which were all more or less damaged in consequence. Michael pleaded his innocence of any malicious intention, and promising to pay for all the damages and the costs of prosecution, was discharged.

Grand Organ Concert—Our musical readers will be delighted to learn that Prof. Morgan, the greatest organist of the world, will give a grand concert on the mammoth organ of St. Paul's Cathedral, on Thursday evening next. Prof. Morgan presided at the organ at Vespers yesterday afternoon in St. Paul's, and delighted the congregation present with his wonderful execution. The organ is a grand success, and Mr. Morgan can handle it in a manner which no other musician in the world could excel.

The Penitentiary—Since the erection of the new penitentiary, in Allegheny county, there has been thirty-two thousand three hundred and thirty-three prisoners received within its massive walls. There is at present about three hundred inmates, which, before the present term of court expires, will doubtless be increased to some extent.

Fined—Street Commissioner Flinn, than whom there is no more vigilant official in the county, made three charges of nuisance against certain parties, residents of the Sixth Ward, on Monday morning last, before Mayor. After considerable grumbling, they each paid a fine of two dollars and were discharged.

Paid for his Fun—Thomas C. Halleman was on another bender on Saturday night, and as usual, began to abuse his better half. The neighbors interfered, however, and Thomas found repose in the cooler until yesterday morning, when he was released on payment of ten dollars and costs.

Trial for Libel.—The trial of the case of John H. Beiseley, one of the commissioners of Beaver county, against J. H. Odell, editor of the Local, began on Monday last and was continued on Saturday. The jury convicting the defendant on two of six counts in the indictment.

The Railroad Passes to be given for transportation to Philadelphia on the occasion of the reception of State flags, will be good from the 1st to the 8th of July. The rate for excursion tickets, we understand has been fixed at fourteen dollars.

The Bakerstown Soldiers' Convention and procession promises to be largely attended, and preparations are being made for it on rather an extensive scale. A large delegation will go from this city.

The Duquesne Works.

We have always claimed for this market a superiority in the manufacture of agricultural implements. The claim has been substantially recognized in the prosperity of the manufacturers engaged in the trade. Among the most prosperous of these is Columbus Coleman, proprietor of the Duquesne Works, near the Pennsylvania, Allegheny city. He has devoted nearly a life time to his business, and being a practical mechanic himself, has won an enviable reputation for the quality, durability and superiority of the implements turned out from his establishment. We looked through his extensive works a few days ago, and closely examined many of the finished agricultural implements manufactured to order, or awaiting purchasers. The celebrated steel tooth hay rakes are in themselves worthy of special mention. They are light, graceful and easy to work. A child can attend them and perform an incredible amount of labor. The steel teeth are of the best material, warranted to stand great tension without snapping, and are so arranged as to be lifted almost by an ounce weight pressure with the hand upon the lever. No rake should be without one, nor would they if its merits were thoroughly understood. Mr. Coleman also manufactures the famous "Prairie Bird" and "Meadow Lark" rakes, which are also constructed of the best material and warranted to prove durable and satisfactory. He has recently introduced into the shop a new style of tooth to supplant the old round or oval one. It is of three equal sides, much resembling cane swords, and is said to prove an invaluable invention. We also noticed several original hay forks, manufactured exclusively by Mr. Coleman, as are all the other implements mentioned, which recommend themselves to the farmer. They are "grasping" machines which are easily worked, and perform a prodigious amount of hoisting with but trifling power and in very short time. Wagon making is made a specialty by Mr. Coleman, and as he employs none but the very best of mechanics in this department, all work of this description has about it a degree of superiority. An elegant, heavy burden wagon manufactured for Lippincott, Fry & Co., of this city, had just been finished, it was a perfect beauty, and we venture to say the best wagon in the two cities. Nothing but the stoutest of eastern mountain timber is used in the establishment, and the steel and iron employed is of the finest quality. All sorts of wagons, trucks, hand-carts, harrows, &c., are made to order at the shortest notice. Mr. Coleman is a fair-dealing, honorable gentleman, and we cordially commend him to the patronage of the community, knowing the style of his workmanship, and the desire to please and benefit his customers.

Amusements.

Who among us that have not in our days of childhood read with pleasure and delight the many wonders contained in the "Arabian Nights?" Who has not watched with painful anxiety the course of poor Sinbad the sailor with the old man of the sea on his back, and rejoiced at his final deliverance! Who that has not heard of Aladdin and his wonderful lamp. Those that have and those that have not, we advise to go to the Opera House and witness the grand spectacle of that name which will be produced for the first time to-night. We had the pleasure of witnessing a rehearsal of this play, which, beyond question, is the grandest and most superb spectacular performance ever brought before the Pittsburgh public. The cavern of jewels in the first act is perfectly grand, while its flying palace in the fifth act is worth double the price of admission. Besides the scenic attraction, the excellent artiste, Miss Mollie Williams, and the great comedian, Felix A. Vincent, appear, the first as Aladdin and the latter as Abanazar. For the new sensation we predict an immense run.

Miss Noemie de Marguerittes, who made her first appearance on any stage in Baltimore this season, opens at the Varieties to-night as Fanchon in the domestic drama of that name. She is young, beautiful and said to be talented. Her youthfulness will draw good houses during her stay.

At Trimble's Varieties an excellent company is playing at present. The house is nightly crowded to excess. To-night a great bill is offered.

False Pretence.

A man named J. W. Winders was before Alderman Strain on Saturday, charged with obtaining goods under false representations. He shipped two bales rags to Rochester, and representing that they failed to come to hand, endeavored to recover the value of their contents, fixed by him at thirty-three hundred dollars. His scheme, however, failed to work. No bail was offered, and upon examination the fraudulent design was self-evident. This fact was known, yet he was permitted to make oath to the nature of the case before a magistrate, and to imagine that he was about to be compensated for his alleged loss, the trick was exposed and he found himself the unwilling guest of an officer. He was held in the sum of $1,000 for a further hearing.

Arrested on Suspicion—Daniel Mayhew who was discharged at the present term of court on the charge of highway robbery, and resisting an officer, was arrested last night about eleven o'clock, on Fifth street, with a huge bundle under his arm, in which was contained a pair of pants, a fine white shirt, a pair of socks, and a red tablecloth. On being questioned as to how they came into his possession, he stated that he was taking them to a washerwoman for the purpose of having them cleansed, but subsequently informed Captain Lewis at the trouble, that he had found the articles on the bank of the Monongahela river, near the upper bridge. Mayhew will have a hearing to-day, when the truth will doubtless be ascertained.

Again in Trouble—Wilhelmina Fleming, who was charged a few days since with threatening to shoot a certain Mrs. Conrad, a resident on Liberty avenue, on Saturday, charged with threatening to fire the same dwelling, the property of Miss Agnes Mullen. It seems a deadly feud has existed between the parties for some time, and Wilhelmina calling Agnes an ugly old maid before a crowd of spectators some days ago, which in this case may have done nothing but excited merriment, proved to be bitter, and the magistrate therefore discharged her on payment of costs.

About a Horse—There was an animated discussion in the Allegheny Councils on Thursday night, relative to the merits of a horse recently purchased by the chairman of the committee on Engines, for the several Engine Companies. During the debate several gentlemen asserted their entire ignorance of what constituted a first class equine animal, while one gentleman went so far as to declare he didn't know the difference between a mule and a horse, save by the length of the ears.

Assault with Intent to Commit Rape

Annette Gouin, a native of Italy, recently from sunny Italy, appeared before Alderman Allenitz, yesterday, and made information against Joseph Heidelman, a youth of Swissvalle Commission, for assault with intent to commit a rape. Annette is an employee in a saloon kept by Heidelman in the Fifth ward, in Soho. The assault is alleged to have been committed on Friday night last, when Annette, coming down from the upper part of the house, a distance of several inches above the sill of the window opposite the head of the stairway, found Heidelman in the room. He was last seen about nine o'clock, and there is no doubt that he rolled out of the window which was bolted, and fell to the ground, a distance of about thirty-five feet. The jury rendered a verdict of accidental death.

Annual Reunion.—The annual reunion of the Alumni Association of the Pittsburgh Central High School takes place to-morrow evening, at the Board of Trade Rooms. The order of exercises is as follows: Essay, Miss Josephine A. Shepler, address, Alex. C. Montgomery, poem, Sallie A. Rutlege. We acknowledge an invitation to be present.

Fell in a Fit.—On Saturday night about eleven o'clock, a man named William Golling fell in a fit on Wood street in front of Lehman's restaurant. After working up in throes of agony for over ten minutes he recovered, and with the assistance of several friends, was taken to the hospital at No. 51 Gibson street, in the Eighth ward.

The Weather.—The excessive warm weather of the early part of the week gave place to cool, clear days toward its close. On Saturday evening it changed its tactics somewhat, and the morning as to copious showers of rain ever since. The indications are for a good healthy stage of water and very good.

Exhibition.—The annual exhibition and examination of the South Pittsburgh Public School came off on Friday evening and was largely attended. The pupils acquitted themselves with great credit, showing conclusively that their training was in proper and efficient hands.

Fell Through a Stile.—While attending a picnic at McFarland's Grove, on Thursday, a young lady, from Lawrence county, fell through a stile, and injured herself so severely that she was forced to return home on Saturday. Dr. Tenor attended to her injuries.

The Alarm Bell.—For the fire telegraph is to weigh five thousand pounds and will be placed on a tower thirty feet high, to be erected at the south-east corner of the court house grounds. Mr. Andrew Fulton of this city has the contract of casting it.

A Good Jury.—The few acquittals so far during the present term of the Quarter Sessions, is a subject of considerable remark, and the panel of jurors discharged on Friday regar ded as a remarkable one for convictions.

Inquest Held.—Coroner Clawson on Saturday held an inquest upon the body of John Wenzel, killed the day previous in a coal pit in Lower St. Clair township by a mass of slate falling upon him. "Accidental death" was the verdict.

False Report.—It was reported on Saturday evening that Stein, the Temperanceville murderer had been arrested, but such is not the fact. It is believed that he is now in Germany.

Burglar Committed.—Justice J. J. Covert, of Lawrenceville, on Saturday evening, committed a colored man named Warren Powell to answer a charge of burglary.

The Sequel.—The girl we mentioned in Saturday's issue as having been abducted has returned to her friends. The prosecution has been abandoned.

The Sunday Liquor Cases will be taken up in the Court of Quarter Sessions this week.

A CHANGE OF FRONT.

So long as the Reconstruction Amendment to the Constitution was pending in the Senate, the President and the newspapers specially devoted to the defence of his Policy, zealously denounced all attempts to engraft changes on that instrument. In their professed veneration for the Constitution they exalted it above its uses, and substantially held it was not made to serve the convenience of the People, but the People were actually created that the Constitution might have subjects to control. But no sooner had the Amendment passed the Senate than the National Intelligencer, one of the chief exponents and defenders of "My Policy," revived Mr. BUCKALEW'S scheme to rectify the inequalities in Senatorial representation. By this scheme each State would be entitled to one Senator, and an additional Senator for every fifty or one hundred thousand voters. Whatever pretences may be set up, the real design of this Amendment is to reduce the relative importance of New England in the Senate. Those States have been so true to Liberty and the Union, and have so grandly led the march of ideas in all departments of thought and inquiry, as to provoke jealousies and ill-spire resentments. It may be taken, therefore, as settled, that the Conservatives, no matter what they may sometimes aver to the contrary, are not averse to Constitutional amendments, but only to such special amendments as do not fall within the range of their purposes.

It is obvious that the proposed change in the basis of Senatorial representation follows the drift of generic democratic tendencies. It is certainly democratic that representation should be fairly proportioned to the whole number of inhabitants, or to the number actually allowed to use the elective franchise. The Conservatives have manifested strong opposition to regulating representation in the popular branch of Congress on this principle. They now seek to introduce the democratic element into those ramifications of the government from which it was purposely excluded by the founders of the republic. As we are not of those who hold "wisdom died with the fathers," we are not concluded by the authority of tradition; but the Conservatives who profess reverence only for that which is dead, and, often, for that which "stinketh," ought to mind their manners better.

The Constitution did not set up an unmixed democracy. In the constituting of the Senate there is no democracy whatever. Individuals, in the primary sense, are not taken into account. Only States, as political corporations, are represented in it. The fundamental idea of State Rights is that all States are exactly equal—not in territorial dimensions, nor in natural resources, nor in aggregate population; but in authority. This is an application of the rule of equality as it relates to individuals. Individuals are not all of equal weight, endurance, knowledge or virtue. They are only equal in the rights to live, to be secure and to enjoy. The equality of States implies equality of representation, and the Senate was intentionally organized on this basis with a view to permanence and stability of action.

Nor does this anti-democratic element find expression only in the Senate. It enters into the apportionment of the Electoral Colleges; and this so palpably that the election of a President and a Vice-President may absolutely be controlled by it.

The working of this element has not given us dissatisfaction; and hence we have not been eager to abolish the Electoral Colleges, and resort to a direct vote for President and Vice President. Nor are we in any haste to so remodel the Senate as to discard this element. But, this we say, whenever the conservatives come forward with the genuine democratic proposition to let all adult citizens participate equally in the direction of all branches of the government, we shall be likely to lay aside our repugnances to centralism, and give them as strong a lift as we can.

HARD TO SUIT.

For five months past sundry conservative journals have been demanding that Congress should cease talking, and come to positive action, on the matter of Reconstruction. Why don't Congress adopt a Policy? they impatiently inquired. Well, last week Congress stopped talking on that topic and came to a final vote. The Constitutional Amendment was put through under the operation of the previous question. Does this satisfy the conservatives? Not at all. Loud complaint is now made by them that further talk was prevented by the demand for the previous question. To stop what, a little while ago was called "senseless gabble," is now pronounced to be "in sad contrast with the deliberative counsels of the framers of the instrument." More than this; the proposition to call the loyal Legislatures together without delay to pass upon the projected Amendment is carped as designed "to give as little time as possible to the people to consider and reflect upon this very important matter." Procrastination is insisted on. The Southern States are to be kept in uncertainty—for what end? Why to give the conservatives time to finish what they have to say. We beseech them not to be discouraged. It makes no practical difference whether they talk before or after this matter shall be closed out. The masses of the people sustain the call for the previous question; and it will soon be put. Let the conservatives take a full year after the result shall be announced to finish both their argument and vituperation. While engaged in that harmless pastime they will be kept from serious mischief.

THE colored taxpayers of New Jersey mean to offer their ballots at the next election, and if denied the right to vote will bring the matter before the courts for decision. Gen. B. F. Butler is already retained as counsel.

CONSCIENCE.

Every day or two special telegrams from Washington announce the restitution of sums of money fraudulently obtained from the government. These sums are uniformly of small amount, none of them ranging above a few hundred dollars. Is it, therefore, to be inferred that the government has been defrauded of no large sums? Such a conclusion would do extreme violence to the popular apprehension. And it may be remarked that this apprehension, instead of being purely conjectural in its origin, is fortified by so many facts that it seems to be impregnable. Another inference, consequently, seems to be well taken, which is, that a good many American consciences are so constructed that a light load rests uneasily upon them, while a heavy load so adjusts itself as to be carried without perceptible difficulty. This may be held, on superficial inspection, to confirm the sardonic maxim of Mr. WALPOLE that "every man has his price." Thousands of men are not temptable by the hope of unjust gain. Hence, they are not in condition to make restitution. Their hands are not stained by fraud, and their consciences upbraid them not. A thorough scoundrel does not wince at a small wrong or at a big one. He enacts either with perfect equanimity and self-satisfaction. Not troubled with compunctious visitations, no restitution can reasonably be expected of him. But novices in dishonesty frequently are startled by their own reflections and disgorge the spoil for the sake of peace within their own bosoms.

Career of a Murderess.

Paris Correspondence N. Y. Times.

In a recent letter I gave some account of Phillippe, the man who is now in confinement at Mazas, (the Paris Tombs,) awaiting his trial for the perpetration of 18 assassinations. The patrons of our melo-dramatic theaters complain that the authors who cater to their peculiar taste are deficient in imagination, and are continually serving up to them the same old play, with the same old incidents of plot, only rehashed and transposed, with no more than a change of title. So it is with the crimes of real life; its as well as those of the mimic scene—there is nothing new under the sun. The wretch Probst, no doubt, seems to you, in America the most ferocious incarnation of the sanguinary villain; but the Frenchman, Phillippe, far outstrips in dagitious cruelty the German assassin of Philadelphia, and even Phillippe himself is but a plagiary, so far as the number of his unfortunate victims is concerned, of a woman who signalized herself in Paris during the rule of the Directory. One day, at the period mentioned, the proprietor of a furnished hotel in the Rue de l' Universite, appeared before the Minister of Police and informed that functionary that a murder had just been committed in his (the hotel-keeper's) house. On the previous evening, he said, a stranger had taken a room, stating his residence to be Meaux, and his purpose to be to spend two or three days in Paris. After ordering his baggage to be carried to his apartment, the new comer went out, giving notice that he was going to the Odeon Theater, and should not return to the hotel until the termination of the performances. Near midnight he reappeared, accompanied by a young and very pretty woman, dressed in male attire, who, he said, was his wife. The next morning, at an early hour, the pretend spouse left the house, requesting that her husband might not be disturbed until her return, which would be in about an hour. At noon she was still absent, and, hearing nothing stirring in the room occupied by the gentleman from Meaux, the landord began to feel uneasy, and rapped at the stranger's door. Receiving no answer from within, the hotel-keeper sent for a duplicate key to the apartment, upon entering which the unfortunate man was found lifeless in his bed. A doctor was hastily summoned, who, after a brief examination of the body, declared that death had been produced by a blow on the left temple, inflicted with a sharp instrument. It was evident that the assassination had been committed by the woman in male attire, and every effort was made by the police to discover her whereabouts, but ineffectually. A month subsequently another murder was perpetrated under similar circumstances, except that on this occasion the victim, also a traveler, had gone to the room in company with the latter hour, however, in effemilate looking young man came down stairs, and was met by the porter of the hotel, who remembered the fact on the following morning, when the crime was discovered. This affair caused great excitement in Paris, and redoubled exertions were made by the police to ferret out the mysterious assassin, but without success. Eleven months elapsed when a third victim perished in precisely the same manner as the preceding two, and in the course of a few months no less than twenty men lost their lives by means so exactly identical that no doubt was entertained that that the murderous blows were all inflicted by the same hand. Stung by these quick, touche, the Ministeur of Police set all his spies to work, and offered a large reward for the discovery of the author of these unparalleled crimes.

One evening a certain B., a member of the Secret Police, but who had the appearance of a provincial gentleman, was passing through a narrow street of the City, when he encountered a handsome, equivocal-looking youth. He stopped, turned, and shouted to himself, "That is a woman in male garb. It it should be she!"

At the same moment the handsome stranger also turned, and smiled encouragingly.

"That settles the question," murmured the delighted spy. "Now, if I manage things cautiously, my fortune is made." And, retracing his steps, he accosted the individual in question, "I have something very particular to say to you," whispered B., with a knowing leer, "but it is not possible for us to talk freely in the public street. Might I not invite you to accompany me to my hotel?"

"I suppose you take me to be a woman," was the reply, in a soft voice. "You are quite mistaken, my good Sir! I don't mind having a chat with you, however wherever are you staying?"

"In the Rue de l' Universite!"

"Indeed! I am too well known to go there."

"I am on the right track," thought the spy. "Well, then," he said aloud, "we will go wherever you like."

"Come," replied the other.

And, crossing the river, the pair presently entered a small hotel on the Place du Chatelet, engaged in apartment, and ordered supper to be served in a private room.

"If I am to remain with you during your stay in Paris," said the young woman, who no longer attempted to conceal her sex, "you had better have your baggage brought here."

B., overjoyed at the opportunity thus offered to lodge the necessary information at the Central Police Station, at once assented to this suggestion, and bethought of that he would go himself, pay his bill, and bring a box of silks he had at the other hotel. After an hour's absence he returned, accompanied by two porters, carrying on their shoulders a large and apparently heavy box, which they deposited in a corner of the room. The supper previously ordered was now served.

"Your walk must have made you thirsty," said the young woman, pouring out a glass of wine for her companion. "But, before you sit down, have the kindness to give me my handkerchief, which I have left there on the sofa."

B., suspecting some trick, but while crossing the room, with a fool like new acquaintance easily, and saw her throw a powder into the glass of wine, which, instead of sparkling, he managed to spill on the carpet. In a few moments he showed signs of drowsiness and began to murmur incoherent words. Drawing the syren near him, he felt something in her pocket which excited his curiosity. Upon asking what it was she produced the object—a beautiful little hammer.

"This," she said, "is an opiate of the most powerful description. I'll show you presently how it puts people to sleep."

He had fallen to the floor, in an apparent state of complete unconsciousness. Stooping over him, the murderess raised her anticipated victim's head, placed it in the most favorable position for her the intended blow, and had already raised the pretty little hammer, when suddenly the box in the corner flew open with a loud noise, and a grip of iron seized her uplifted arm.

On the trial, which took place shortly afterward, the female assassin alleged, in her defense, that she had been ruined by a villain, and had sworn to be revenged upon the entire male sex. This romantic story, however, did not prevent her conviction and subsequent death on the scaffold.

—Mr. Throckmorton, who owns a rancho, embracing some twenty thousand acres, in Marin county, Cal., has recently discovered a stump on his grounds which takes the palm from the big trees of Calaveras county. This stump is fifty-two feet five inches in diameter, and is now used by Mr. T. for a corral.

The Dunkard Creek Oil Regions—Wells Producing—Gold in Greene County—Old Boby Mable.

BOROUGH, GREENE CO., June 16, 1866.

MESSRS. EDITORS:—Having noticed by your special telegraphs that oil was flowing in this untried oil country, I determined to investigate. On June 16th, at 6 p. m., I started on the steamboat Gallatin, and by 10 o'clock next morning we were in Greensboro, the great "Head Center" of this oil country. After faring sumptuously at the Hahn House—as good a country house as man or beast need want—we started "cross lots" on Walker's line for Dunkard Creek, which we reached in a distance of about three miles, at Rocky Gulch, where we found two wells, neither of them in operation, but considerable oil in and about them. The next well was the "Buck Eye," owned by the old original Monongahela Pioneer Oil Company. It was bored to the depth of oil, and then caved in. At the next well, called "Indiana Well," they were changing their tubing, and had not been able to exhaust the water, but expect soon to get to the oil vein. The next well was the "Bobtail," and it was pumping out the pure oil in a style that would induce the most timid to bel his money on the "Bobtail." The next well is the "Vangegrift," which concluded to run on its own account, and flowed for several days, when it was thought best to use the pump again, which has been done with success. Those three wells, Indian, Bobtail, and Vandegrift, are on the property of the Monongahela Pioneer Oil Company, which is the most valuable territory on Dunkard creek, extending for about one and a quarter miles on both sides of the creek on the Gaffin, Elliott, Sykes, and part of Maple farms. We visited all the wells in this vicinity and found many of them producing oil. The Enterprise was throwing a good stream of oil, and they were preparing to pump another well. The manager told us that they had not sold any of this oil for less than fifty cents per gallon. The "Lone Star" well we found pumping a fair stream of oil, as well on the Major Farm we found operating with a steam-pipe carried down to the oil vein to keep the crevices open. It had proved very successful. We also found a new pumping gear—a great improvement on the walking beam—an improvement that will be greatly to the interest of this section of country.

We met the manager of the "Amber Gold Company," they are at work on the "Keener" farm. They propose sinking a shaft 600 feet deep, 6 by 12 feet wide. They have had specimens of quartz assayed at Lafayette in Philadelphia, which were pronounced very valuable. We were told that every well in this region had produced oil, but owing to bad management many of them have caved in, and the present owners have had no experience in oil mining, and illy spent their time. They, of course, soon used up the working capital, and as no way seemed to be open to collect assessments from large chartered companies, they stand idle for want of funds. I believe many wells in such shape are to be sold by the sheriff, and I bought in by members of companies, who know they are good property, but must be managed well to pay.

Before closing this epistle I must say a word about "Boby Maple," as they call him, a man who has lived in this county more than sixty years. To see him seated on the stone step with his old hat, his head bald, his coat patched and ragged shirt, old, faded slouch hat, you would feel like drawing out your pocket book to make a contribution to a hungry, ragged wayside beggar, but could not be able to buy and sell most men who come in contact with him. He has his thousands of goods in the different farm houses of neighboring counties, his farm he refused $50,000 for, then he has his mill and store, &c. And for intelligence he is the Solomon of the country. His first vote was for John Q. Adams, and has been a great whig and republican. One of our party traded about bargain and sale between Adams and Clay. It was worth a trifle here, to see the fire flash in his eye and his long form swing around in gesture, defending the "purest man on God's earth" as he called him. He silenced his adversary directly. He is a great reader, and has attended to the order for over sixty years; has a special invitation to attend a meeting next week in Lancaster. My advice to all who come to this country would be not to leave without seeing "Boby Maple." He has considerable of his property leased for twenty years. He says that time will soon roll away, and he will be dead, and then no advantage. As he is now eighty-three years old you may feel how queer that sounds. I will now say good by, and hope to meet you all once again, feeling this specimen of boring you will satisfy you I have been among the borers.

Yours truly, B.

A Representative Business House.

The trimming and notion business of Pittsburgh is no second item of importance in the trade of the city. It is a speciality which has been keeping pace with our commercial growth; a branch of business created and sustained by the prosperity of the people. It is within the recollection of the great majority of our readers when the humble thread and needle stores occupied no prominent place in the trade of the city. But they were destined to be the nucleus of greater things. Out of them we have to-day the most extensive and princely of mercantile houses devoted in a measure to the same line of business. Nor was the change wrought by the sudden plunge of countless thousands of capital into the trade; but simply by the steady improvement, growth and importance of the city, and the energy and application of the merchants engaged in the traffic. Men of years ago entered their business as its pioneers, applied all their energy and resources to force the public into the recognition of their efforts to supply a want in the trade, and they succeeded. Scarcely all the trade of Western Pennsylvania, Eastern Ohio, and Western Virginia is controlled by our jobbers of trimmings, notions, embroideries and fancy goods. Our leading establishments are swarmed from early morn till dark with purchasers. Among the first established of these houses was that of Messrs. Joseph Horne & Co., Nos. 77 and 79 Market street. Few of our readers need be informed of the rapid increase and importance of this representative house, nor why they have succeeded in obtaining and controuling the larger share of public patronage. They made it a point from which they never permitted deviation, to deal fairly and honorably with all who favored them with their patronage. Again, they successfully combined with the eastern thicket and attracted by superiority of stock and mere nominal profits upon sales all the floating trade which otherwise would have drifted elsewhere. A customer made could not prove blind to his own interests and was a customer retained. There is a grand secret in this which business men should consider. The firm have just received another large invoice to their already unpiesse stock of straw goods, ribbons, flowers, dress trimmings, embroideries, buttons, hosiery, gloves, skirts, corsets, and a general variety of notions and fancy goods. The country dealer, city merchant, or peddler, will find such a stock as will admirably suit their trade, while prices are as low as any similar house in the eastern cities. The ladies, especially those in this vicinity, need not be told of the inducements offered in the retail department of Messrs. trimming store. Their shelves and counters contain choice fresh new goods, and a large number of polite and attentive salesmen and lady clerks are constantly in attendance. We cheerfully lend our word of commendation with the settled voice of the shopping community in referring our readers to the trimming house of Joseph Horne & Co., Nos. 77 and 79 Market street.

SUMMER REST. By Gail Hamilton. Boston: Ticknor & Fields. For sale by J. P. Hunt & Co., Pittsburgh.

Gail Hamilton, that is, Miss Dodge, has but accorded to her by her predecessors and by the literary coterie in which she moves a reputation which her performances do not justify. The sketches contained in this volume were originally contributions to the Atlantic Monthly.

POEMS. By the author of "John Halifax, Gentleman." Miss Mulock. Boston: Ticknor & Fields. For sale by J. P. Hunt & Co., Pittsburgh.

Miss Mulock is imbued with the true spirit of poetry, though more widely and favorably known as a novelist. Some of her poems are not inferior in imagination and finish to those of Mrs. Browning or Miss Landon.

Visiting Firemen.

The Vigilant Fire Company of Philadelphia, who have started on an extensive western tour, will arrive in this city at two o'clock p. m. They will be the guests of the Eagle during their stay in this city, which from necessity, must be very brief, as they intend leaving for the West to-morrow morning.

The visitors will number about eighty, and will be received at the depot by a delegation from the Eagle.

To-night a grand banquet will be given at City Hall in honor of the guests, which promises to be a most agreeable affair, judging from our knowledge of the persons who have charge of the arrangements.

We opine that the Vigilant boys will have no cause to regret their visit the City of Smoke.

Meeting of the Sixty-first.—Pursuant to call, the members of the Sixty-first Pennsylvania Volunteer Regiment assembled at Captain Louis Unger's La Pierre House, 48 Market street, on Saturday evening, to make arrangements to attend the flag presentation at Philadelphia on the Fourth. Surgeon S. M. Tindle presided at the meeting, assisted by Captains Alexander Hay, and Captain Hager was chosen Secretary. John McVay was selected as Treasurer. A resolution was adopted to attend at the presentation, after which the meeting adjourned until Wednesday evening, when all members of the Sixty-first, particularly the color-guard, are expected to be present.

Ejected by Force.—Peter Nesbaum was before Alderman Morrow on Saturday charged with assault and battery, on oath of Andrew Fleming. The offense consisted in Nesbaum, the keeper of a lager beer saloon on Penn street, between Market and Third, which they never permitted deviation, to deal fairly and honorably with all who favored them with their patronage. Again, they successfully combined with the eastern thicket and attracted by superiority of stock and mere nominal profits upon sales all the floating trade which otherwise would have drifted elsewhere. A customer made could not prove blind to his own interests and was a customer retained.

There is a grand secret in this which business men should consider. The firm have just received another large invoice to their already unpiesse stock of straw goods, ribbons, flowers, dress trimmings, embroideries, buttons, hosiery, gloves, skirts, corsets, and a general variety of notions and fancy goods. The country dealer, city merchant, or peddler, will find such a stock as will admirably suit their trade, while prices are as low as any similar house in the eastern thicket. The ladies, especially those in this vicinity, need not be told of the inducements offered in the retail department of Messrs. trimming store. Their shelves and counters contain choice fresh new goods, and a large number of polite and attentive salesmen and lady clerks are constantly in attendance. We cheerfully lend our word of commendation with the settled voice of the shopping community in referring our readers to the trimming house of Joseph Horne & Co., Nos. 77 and 79 Market street.

Paris Conference Abandoned.

HOPES OF PEACE ALMOST VANISHED.

Amendment to the Reform Bill Withdrawn.

MORE BANK FAILURES.

NEW YORK, June 16.—The Inman steamer City of Paris, which left Liverpool at 3 o'clock on the afternoon of the 6th, and Queenstown on the 7th, arrived here this morning.

It is fully confirmed that the proposed Conference is abandoned, owing to the demands of Austria, which were regarded by England, France and Russia as tantamount to a refusal. All negotiations are broken off by the neutrals, and it remains for the armed powers to negotiate among themselves, or commence war. Hopes of peace have almost vanished.

The London Times says: Daily, almost hourly,—the chances of peace fade away. It believes the first event will occur in the Elba Duchies, but that the great move of Austria will be an attempt to possess herself of Silesia.

The Daily News says appearances indicate that a declaration of war, or a manifesto equivalent to it, will proceed from Prussia.

The Prussian Government had issued a circular note to the neutral powers, charging Austria with flagrant breach of treaties, by referring the Holstein question to the Diet. Prussia also sent a protest to Austria, declaring that the measures announced by Austria in the Diet are in violation of the treaty of Gastein, and cause the suspension of the Duchies, and restores the two powers to the position accorded them by the treaty of Vienna.

An Austrian circular declares that Austria will observe the Gastien Convention until a definite settlement of the question of the Duchies is effected. The only object in referring the matter to the Diet was to effect such settlement.

Military preparations are reported from all quarters.

After another long debate on the reform bill, Hoyter's amendment in favor of the postponement was withdrawn, and the bill was ultimately referred to the Committee with 15 A. M. instructions. It was stated that the measure would be withdrawn, but the Government gave no indication of such a step.

Spain increased her army to 75,000.

Agra & Masterman's bank had suspended. Their liabilities were heavy, and wide-spread. The directors do not doubt but that all will be paid in full, and only an inconsiderable amount of paid up capital will be lost. The event caused considerable commercial depression, although it was not unexpected.

The war between the continental continues, and war is apparently inevitable.

Illness of John Ross, Chief of the Cherokees—Fuller-Dawson Contested Seat Case—Jeff. Davis' Health Improving—The Admission of Tennessee.

NEW YORK, June 16.—The morning papers have the following special dispatch from Washington: The Ways and Means Committee will not be able to settle all the provisions of the tariff bill until those of the tax bill affecting cotton and its products shall have been finally adopted. The tax bill will probably be reported on Monday.

John Ross, Chief of the Cherokees, is so ill that little hopes of his recovery are entertained.

The Fuller versus Dawson, Pennsylvania contested seat case, will be decided on Monday next.

The Richmond Enquirer states that Jeff. Davis himself informed a lady recently that his health had visibly improved since he had been allowed exercise.

There is no doubt but that Tennessee will be admitted by the 4th of July. Several Republican members have written to Governor Brownlow, urging him to call the Legislature together at once to ratify the amendment.

Head Center Stephens has not met with much sympathy thus far in his travels, and collects but little money.

From Mexico—Santa Anna's Visit to America.

NEW YORK, June 16.—The Herald's City of Mexico correspondence of the 5th of June says: Santa Anna for the United States had caused great surprise, and was received with much joy by the Liberals, while the Imperialists manifested uneasiness. The Imperial Council were continually exchanging ideas on the important subject of how not to stay behind when the soldiers go away.

The State of Chihuahua is now entirely rid of Imperialists. A deplorable state of anarchy is existing in Tamaulipas and Nuevo Leon. Bloodshed, robbery, and kidnapping are of daily occurrence, brought about by the ruthless warfare waged by Maximilian.

Masonic Temple Damaged—Murderer of Captain Dent Found Guilty—Execution at Parkersburg.

CINCINNATI, June 16.—The Masonic temple, corner Third and Walnut streets, was damaged by fire yesterday to the extent of fifteen thousand dollars. Insured.

Walter R. Watson, the murderer of Captain Menier, was tried at Newport, Kentucky, yesterday, and found guilty.

Mortimer Gibboney, one of the murderers of Abraham Deems, was hung at Parkersburg, West Virginia, yesterday.

From St. Domingo.

NEW YORK, June 16.—Advices from St. Domingo state that the revolution against President Baez was increasing in dimensions. The Capital was closely besieged by the insurgents. There is but little doubt of the success of the Revolutionists.

Rise in Gold—Excitement in New York Stock Board.

NEW YORK, June 16.—The foreign news has had the effect of producing much excitement in the gold room and stock board. Gold opened at 1,40½ and rapidly went up to 1,42.

The drawn numbers will be published in the Cincinnati Gazette as soon as drawn, and when the drawing is over each agent will be furnished with a complete list of the drawn numbers.

FINANCE AND TRADE.

SATURDAY, June 16, 1866.

Gold opened at 151¼ bid in New York this morning, but there were no sellers. The foreign advices continue unfavorable, financially, and this was what stiffened up the gold market, and sent the premium up to 151¾. It would seem from the steamer's news which arrived to-day that the great European powers have adjourned without accomplishing anything, and that war is now almost inevitable.

There need be no apprehension of heavy shipments of bonds back to this side of the water, but yet prudence will demand slight remittances for our heavy importations, and as our produce shipments are insufficient, we must look for further shipments of gold. The eight and a half millions to be disbursed by the government on July 1, will be absorbed by the shipments of three steamer days, so that we cannot look for much relief from that quarter; and, under existing circumstances, it would not be prudent for the government to dispose of any more gold. There are those who are of the opinion that it would be best for to let the gold market take its own course untrammeled, and prevent, by its high price, an immediate large shipment of our bonds, which we may be able to get back nearly as cheap as we sold them, by giving us time to get our next cotton crop to market, and Europe, will, no doubt, want an additional supply of Grain, Flour, Provisions, etc., etc., should the war last any length of time.

Five Twenty bonds keep firm at 106⅛@106⅜; 1881's advanced one-fourth; 10-40's one-fourth better, and 7-30's are strong. Railroad stocks are dull, but prices generally well sustained. Bank shares are in demand and firm, though we hear of but few transactions. Oil stocks very dull and neglected, and what is worse than all, the indications at present for the future are be no means encouraging. Insurance Stocks are also dull and heavy, with more sellers than buyers.

—It is estimated that since April 21st the amount of gold coin exported to Europe is upwards of forty millions, of which nearly four millions were sent abroad on Wednesday last. The largest amount taken on any one day was 6,183,574, on May 26. This immense drain of the precious metals naturally puts up the premium with the same force that a disaster to the national arms would have done in a time of war. Our imports have recently been so extensive that more than the usual quantity of gold is required to meet our foreign indebtedness, and hence the inability of the Treasury Department to "control the market" even at a sacrifice of so large an amount of coin as it lately authorized to be sold in New York at a trifle above 150.

—It is reported that one of the Cincinnati banks has recently been victimized by an adroit confidence game. The Commercial, of saturday, says:

"The story goes that a respectable looking man presented letters of introduction, and desired to leave on deposit a chest represented to contain gold. It seemed to be heavy enough to warrant the idea concerning its contents. After a while a bank teller scanned the man's signature was cashed on the strength of his box—reference, we believe, being made to the president before the deposit was made. After some reflection about the transaction, it seems that it was thought to be well to take a look at the gold, and a locksmith accordingly opened the box. Unfortunately the coin must have changed to baser metal, for instead of gold there was nothing to be seen but a good stock of shot. Whether steps have been taken that will change the gold again to gold we know not publicly. Indeed, the whole affair is such as one as to cause the discovery of the facts to be a very difficult matter."

—The tax bill before the Finance Committee of the United States is now the great centre of attraction at Washington. Class interests are represented by the most efficient of the lobby, the members of which are not conscientious body to leave no honorable means undone to carry through each his particular object. The State banks, it is understood, have petitioned the Committee to vote to extend the time after which a tax of ten per cent is to be imposed upon State banks notes to one year after the first of July next, the day on which the tax was to take effect, as imposed by the bill passed by the Senate, it will be vigorously combated in the house, and probably defeated there. The horse railroads, it is reported, have a strong lobby on the ground against the House clause of the tax bill, which prohibits them from demanding one cent extra from each passenger, because they have to pay three per cent tax on gross receipts. Insurance companies also complain that they are unduly remembered, and that the tax imposed on their business should be materially reduced. The brokers, as a class, are not numerous, and while they profess to ask no exemption from a fair and equitable proportion of the burthens imposed for the support of the government, do strenuously resist what they consider to be a just discrimination against their business, which is claimed to be as legitimate as any now liable to taxation, and especially in the matter of convenience under our present system of currency and Government liabilities.—Philadelphia Ledger.

—If the proceedings instituted by the Receiver of the late bankrupt Merchants' National Bank, at Washington, against the stockholders of the bank under the personal liability clause in the currency law, shall be sustained, the effect will be to make the shares of all classes of National Bank stocks; not that the provision of the law is new or unknown, but the contingency of a resort to it was hardly thought possible, except perhaps in extraordinary cases, and at long intervals. It now seems likely to be made available generally, as suits are already instituted against holders of shares in every case of these failures thus far. The suit at Washington will be watched with much solicitude by parties interested in National Banks, as the result of it may, if successful, be made a test case, and will govern in all similar bank failures in the future; and if it shall be such as to inspire caution in the owners of the banks, it may have a very depressing influence upon bank management.

PITTSBURGH MARKETS.

OFFICE OF THE PITTSBURGH GAZETTE, SATURDAY, June 16, 1866.

The produce markets have been quiet, and, in some respects, a little dull during the past week, though there has been a fair volume of business, but it was principally of a local and unimportant character. The extraordinary advance in gold has made but a very slight impression, taking everything into consideration. Imported goods are firmer, and held at a slight advance, but there is no excitement and domestic produce generally, remains about the same with gold at 158, that it did with gold at 140.

GRAIN—Wheat is firm with a good local and interior demand and the supply is light. Good spring may be quoted at $2.25@2.30. Oats—sale of 1 car, in sacks, at 56; and 250 bush ditto, at 58. Prime Penna. and Ohio Oats are selling from store at 64 to 65. Corn is dull with a supply somewhat in excess of the demand; prime shelled may be quoted at 86 on track. Rye is dull and unchanged at 90 to 95 for Western, and $1 for Prime Penna. Sale of 1 car prime Ohio Barley at $1. Buckwheat is selling at $2.25.

PROVISIONS—Bacon is firm and moderately active but unchanged; we continue to quote at 16@15½ for Shoulders; 17½@18 for Ribbed sides; and 24@24½ for Canvassed sugar Cured Hams. Lard is dull but firm at 22½ for steam-ed, and 23 for prime kettle rendered. Mess Pork is firm, but there is very little inquiry for it.

FLOUR—Is firm, with regular local demand, but the market is devoid of excitement, and prices are well maintained. We continue to quote Spring Wheat at $10.00@11; half Spring and Winter at $11@12; and Winter at $12.50 to $13; and $14 to $16 for fancy brands.

HIGHWINES—The demand is light but the market is firm and prices are a shade higher; we now quote Chicago at $2.28@2.30.

POTATOES—Demand fair supply limited and market a shade firmer. Sales of Peach Blows from store at $1.15 to $1.20 per bush, and $2.25 to $2.40 per bbl.

HAY—Is steady with a fair demand and light arrivals; regular sales at scales at $24 to $25@26, as to quality. No baled Hay in market of any consequence.

BUTTER—There is very little inquiry for this article in a wholesale way, the little speculative feeling which prevailed some weeks since have entirely subsided. Prime Roll can not be quoted above 20@22.

EGGS—Demand fair and market steady; we can report regular sales at 22@23.

CHEESE—Is coming in pretty freely, and the market is a little dull, though prices remain unchanged.

WOOL—The demand continues light; occasional small sales of prime at 55@60.

SEEDS—Flaxseed is in good demand and sells readily at $2.65@2.70 per bush.

PITTSBURGH PETROLEUM MARKET.

OFFICE OF THE PITTSBURGH GAZETTE, SATURDAY, June 16, 1866.

CRUDE—The market for Crude has been dull and weak throughout the week which has just closed, the extraordinary advance in gold having made but a very slight impression on the general tone of the trade. In fact, the contrary seems to be the case. With gold at 158, oil is a shade lower than it was with gold at 156, and the demand even at the decline is very limited, speculators and refiners manifesting a disposition to hold off, and await future developments. The receipts have been large during the week for this season of the year, and the indications are that there is less oil offering than is generally supposed. Quotations may be fairly given at 18 to 18½, in bbls and bulk, and 18 to 18½ in bbls delivered. Sales of 100 bbls at 18½, 500 to return; 198 at 18¾; and 150 at 18½ packages included.

REFINED—The market for bonded oil continues dull and weak, and while there is still some inquiry, it should be borne in mind that there are no buyers except at a material decline. We can report sales of 500 bbls for July delivery at 40@41c; 500 for August at 41@42; 500 for September at 44; 500 for September, at 43, and 500 for October, at 45. For immediate delivery on the cars here, there has been no sales for several days, the quotations may be fairly given at 35 to 36—there was a sale of a 1000 bbls for September during the early part of the week at 39, but this figure could not be realized for that delivery. The present apparent dullness and stagnation may be attributed to the complicated state of financial matters in Europe, and until things take a turn for the better, we can see no reasonably look for any permanent improvement here.

ARRIVALS—The arrivals of oil by the Allegheny River since our last report were as follows:

RIVER NEWS.

ARRIVALS.

Bayard	Moore	Cincinnati
New State	Harlan	Cincinnati

BOATS LEAVING TO-DAY.

Leondias	Maryatta	St. Louis
Nora	Dowling-Wood	Cincinnati
Julia	Coulson	Zanesville
Forest City	Gordon	Parkersburg

The river attained a height of five and a half feet on Saturday forenoon, but since it has been receding rapidly, and last evening the pier marks indicated scant four and a half feet. As it has been raining almost without cessation since saturday evening, another swell is looked for, and we should not be surprised to find seven or eight feet by to-morrow morning. The latter is the general opinion.

The New State, from Cincinnati, and the Bayard, from Parkersburg, are the only arrivals from below. As the Muskingum River is shoaling fast, and the Kanawha is reported as impossible that the Emma Graham from Zanesville, will be found in port this morning.

The Nora, for Cincinnati, Leondias, for St. Louis, and the Julia, for Zanesville, cleared during Saturday afternoon and evening. The Nora had a very fair freight list and quite a number of passengers; while the Leondias was completely filled in consequence of her starting to go out with but little over half a cargo.

The following boats were at the Monongahela landing last evening: Bayard, Arabian, Pittsburgh, Emma Graham, Kate Kinsman, Yorktown, Leonora, Wanaita, New State, R. C. Gray, Wm. A. Caldwell, Rapidan, Citizen and Tablequah.

The Fair Play, Capt. Taylor, will positively leave for Arkansas river and all intermediate points to-day, and passengers and shippers should bear this in mind, and act accordingly.

The Bayard, Capt. Junius Moore, will be out next on the list for St. Louis, and will soon be ready to take her departure. This boat has no superior in the trade.

The Sam Gaty, Capt. J. H. Lightner, is filling up steadily for Cincinnati, and will probably get off this afternoon.

The new steamer Elector, belonging to the Pittsburgh, Fort Wayne & Chicago line, left this evening at 5 o'clock, on her first trips.

The Union, better known as the "old line," also have a boat leaving at the same hour.

We extract the following from the Commercial of Cincinnati, of saturday:

The Lorena, bound from Pittsburgh to St. Louis, with five coal barges in tow, broke her rudder in fighting and working off, but when near Parkersburg was so unfortunate as to run through her larboard cylinder, breaking both heads and rendering the Captain, Chas. Thompson Dumont, yesterday, who has the patterns to make the necessary repairs. She will arrive here to-day and make the requisite repairs and leave for St. Louis on Monday. Mr. Cal. W. Bennett jr., late of the office of the Silver Moon, left for Allegheny Co., Pa., to last night's train. It is estimated by gentlemen who have a knowledge of the facts, in language, so important in marine circles. The Pine Grove left for Pittsburgh with as fair trip as she could wish for. Two cows supplied by passengers. She discharges 2,200 sacks of salt at Gallipolis, where she has engagements for 100 barrels of flour.

The Louisville Democrat, of Friday, says:

Gen. Ed. McCook is in the city, and we know all his old friend will be glad to see him. Starting as a private in the Union army, he steadily rose in the service by gallant conduct and receiving successive promotions, and there is no more honorable name on the roll-call of this member of the fighting McCook family. He is now 25 years old, is single, and even then he was a trusty and popular officer.

A Cairo dispatch says Joe Abig, a well-known coal dealer of that city, received news yesterday that he had drawn $25,000 in a New York lottery. Unfortunately, the writer told Joe, that the price of the ticket—$5—had not been forwarded, but, if forwarded immediately, the prize would be forwarded by express. Joe did not bite.
